

Hi Jules,

I hope this note finds you and your family well during these crazy times! Home schooling has been interesting to say the least, but we're all getting by and hanging in the best way that we can. I'm just grateful that we have a comfortable home with a yard, plenty of food and Netflix!

Okay so this email may seem a little out of left field for me, but I really wanted to tell you about this pretty awesome childhood cancer foundation, Infinite Love, that I've been supporting over the last few years. Unfortunately, like many others they are struggling due of COVID-19 and need all of the help that they can get, especially now since childhood cancer stops for nothing (not even a global pandemic).

I first came across Infinite Love for Kids Fighting Cancer on Facebook when I was following the cancer fight of my dear friend's 6-year-old daughter Mia. I was so happy to know that not only was this foundation helping Mia's family during their nightmare, but they also fund vital research so that hopefully one day there won't even be a need for their foundation. Best part of all, this grassroots organization is 100% volunteer run which means every donation goes directly to the cause (that's a rarity these days)!

I know that times are tough for all of us right now, but if you have a moment to visit their website please do, they even have a page dedicated to ways that we can help during the COVID-19 crisis (whether you have money to donate or not). I don't have much to give at this moment, but I know that this foundation started with a single dollar, so I decided to donate $10 a month via their Monthly Givers Club. I was even able to select them as my charity of choice via Amazon and now (at no cost to me), everytime I shop Infinite Love automatically gets .05% of my purchases (and it was REALLY easy to set up)!

Anyway, I hope that you don't mind that I sent this note to you, I just feel really passionate about this charity and often think of a quote I read from Martin Luther King Jr., "If I cannot do great things, I can do small things in a great way." This email was my "small way" of helping Infinite Love.

Much love to you my friend, and stay healthy!
Katie

P.S.

If you feel so inclined, please feel free to forward my email to your own friends. This ripple effect could go a LONG way for Infinite Love.
